Track Events Explained

Individual Sprint – Qualification 200m time trials are followed by knockout heats of 3 laps that select the best two riders to line up against each other in the final. Riders sometimes come to a standstill to make their opponent take the lead – the least advantageous position before the final sprint to the finish line.

Team Sprint – This is raced by teams of three over three laps of the track. Two teams start on opposite sides of the track, with each rider leading for a lap before peeling off. The final remaining rider for each team sprints for the finish to establish the team's time.

Time Trial – Two athletes ride simultaneously during qualification with the 8 fastest going through to the finals. The finals are raced as an individual time trial from a standing start. The competitor with the fastest time is the winner.

Keirin – Riders follow in the slipstream of a pacing motorbike for 750m before undertaking a three-lap sprint to the end. The motorbike gradually increases the speed from 30 to 50 km/h before pulling off the track to allow the sprint to begin.

Individual Pursuit – Two riders start on opposite sides of the track and compete over 2000m for under 15 and under 17 riders. The winner is the rider who manages to catch his/her opponent or who records the fastest time.

Team Pursuit – Two teams of four riders start on opposite sides of the track and compete over 4km. The winning team is the one that manages to catch its opponents or that records the fastest time.

Points Race – This is a bunch start race of around 25km for women and 40km for men. Riders can gain points during sprints (one every 10 laps on a 250m track) and by lapping the rest of the field (+20 points). Any rider that is lapped has 20 points deducted. The final result is calculated according to the number of points won.

Scratch Race – This is a mas start race for individual riders with the first rider crossing the line declared the winner..
